DEATH OF O. M. RICHARDSON, PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN OF CANTON

Otis Mayhew Richardson of Canton, one of the town's most prominent and useful citizens, passed on at midnight Wednesday night, after a short illness, which was pronounced sleeping sickness.

In the passing away of Mr. Richardson, Canton loses a valued citizen, one who had the interests of the community at heart, and who always labored for the good of humanity. He was progressive, energetic and enterprising, with high ideals, good judgment and rare intellect. He was self-sacrificing, kind, and courteous to everyone with whom he came in contact, under all conditions. His home life was ideal. He was prominent in social and fraternal circles, having been a Past Grand of Anasagunticook Lodge, No. 32, I. O. O. F., member of the Grand Lodge of Maine and Canton Encampment, I. O. O. F., Whitey Lodge, No. 187, F. and A. M., Ponemah Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, Past Master of Canton Grange, No. 110, P. of H., also Past District Deputy, and president of the Chamber of Commerce. For a long period of years he was secretary of the Androscoggin Valley Agricultural Society.

In his early life he was in the florist's business for a number of years and edited a florist paper. He was a printer by trade, and ran an office for many years. He was also in the insurance business. Nine years ago he built "Pinebrook Camp" and has enlarged it each year until it is now one of the most popular summer resorts in Maine. Last year he and his son purchased a bungalow on the shore of the lake, and built fifteen sleeping cabins. This place is called "Pinehaven."

Mr. Richardson was born in Canton, June 29, 1869, a son of Mary P. (Neal) Richardson and the late Franklin Richardson. His entire life has been spent in Canton. He is survived by a wife, who was Miss Blanche Poor of Andover; three children, Henry Franklin, who is associated in business with his father, and Ruth and Edward; an aged mother, Mrs. Mary P. Richardson; three sisters, Miss Mary N. Richardson of Boston, Mrs. W. S. Ingersoll of Monmouth, and Mrs. W. A. Lucas of Canton; two brothers, Dr. Geo. F. Richardson of Mount Pleasant, Me., and Chas. E. Richardson of Canton, also several nieces and nephews. Besides caring for his own children, he has given a home to two others, one of whom, Philadore Dablio, is still at the Richardson home and to whom he has given the affection of a father.

The funeral was held Sunday at 12:30 o'clock, Rev. Frank M. Lamb officiating. The house was open from 10 to 11 o'clock to the fraternal orders and organizations. A large delegation from each order was present to take a last farewell of their friend and brother. Mr. Lamb paid a high tribute to the deceased and spoke words of comfort to the many sorrowing relatives. An appropriate vocal solo, "Face to Face," a special favorite of Mr. Richardson, was impressively rendered by Ray Jones of Turner.

Mr. Richardson was passionately fond of flowers and it seemed fitting that such an unusual abundance of exquisite offerings—silent messages of love and respect—should be bestowed upon him. The casket was nearly covered from view, while at the back was a solid bank of flowers and pieces from the different orders surrounded the casket. The tribute from Anasagunticook Lodge, I. O. O. F., was a pillow; Canton Encampment, wreath; Whitey Lodge, F. & A. M., square and compass; Canton Grange, P. of H., pinks; Ponemah Rebekah Lodge, pinks; Chamber of Commerce, chrysanthemums; employees of post office, pinks; family, pillow of roses; brothers and sisters, large spray of chrysanthemums; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Tiroff, pinks; Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Parsons, pinks; Mr. and Mrs. John Ingersoll, pinks; Mr. and Mrs. L. Newman and son, Gerald, pinks; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Poor, wreath; Fred Smith and family and Mrs. Owen Smith, chrysanthemums; Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Morse, chrysanthemums; Rev. N. O. French and Arthur F. French, chrysanthemums; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, roses; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Oldham, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. York, pinks; Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Hollis, Miss Maud Ellis, Mrs. J. H. Puffer and Mrs. Thos. York, chrysanthemums; Miss Jane Hueston, pinks and chrysanthemums; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Wadlin, Mr. and Mrs. Swasey Wadlin and daughter Virginia, basket chrysanthemums and pinks; Miss Lola Haskell, Miss Muriel Rhea, chrysanthemums; Miss A. L. Pierce, roses; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. BOY SCOUT NEWS

Rumford Boy Scouts Go on Camping Trip to Worthyfield Pond.—Do 25 Miles Hiking by Road.

Troop No. 1, Rumford, Maine, made good on their plans for a two-day camping trip to Worthyfield Pond. Wednesday morning thirteen Scouts accompanied by Executive Perkins, started on foot for Irish's Camp on Worthyfield Pond. All excess baggage went ahead by flyover but "shank's mare" led the scouts through the entire trip.

A cold windy morning and a miniature snowstorm made a picturesque as well as a chilly background for the start, but caused no anxiety or delay only on the part of nervous parents. Grub, extra bedding and Scouts were the three prominent features of the morning and it is well to add that all three held a more prominent part before the end of the trip.

Everyone had a great time. There were no accidents and the general behavior was of good tone. Several interesting features will last long in the memories of all Rumford Scouts. Scouts Hutchinson, Pruett, Fernald, Irish, Macaulay and Shurtliff were awarded their Tenderfoot badges for the completion of their Tenderfoot requirements. A short ceremony attended this and included the awarding of the badges by the older Scouts and a short talk by Executive Perkins. The evening program of sports consisted of Cock Fight, Badger Pull, Wild Horse Riding, all forms of contortions' tricks and endurance tests.

At Taps the troop came to attention before the fireplace and gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Philip Jenkins and Robert Seymour acted as assistants in different kinds of Scout Work as well as routine duties. The Special Initiation enjoyed by the new members is worthy of honorable mention because of its instructive as well as interesting side. The meanderings of the subconscious mind when the eyes are blindfolded is very strange as any of these Scouts will testify. The Call of the Wild, the Branding Process, the Dry Cleansing System, the Valley of Death and Davy Jones' Locker will never be forgotten.

The following morning's program consisted of Scoutcraft and football. After dinner every Scout turned to and cleaned up the grounds before leaving camp. One o'clock saw the troop on the road home and facing a stiff tail wind. The return trip was made in four hours. The thoughts of "good old baked beans" sent a thrill to the heart of every Scout on the last few miles and carried them safely into Rumford. The Scouts on the trip were P. Jenkins, E. Emigh, R. Seymour, Abe Coblenz, L. Flannigan, R. Henry, A. Welch, G. Hutchinson, Pruett, B. Irish, K. Macaulay, S. Shurtliff and H. Fernald.

VARIETY STORE OPENED IN BETHEL

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Young are conducting a variety store under the name of Young's Variety Store in the building formerly occupied by Miss L. M. Stearns.

It is rightly named—Variety Store—as a general line of groceries, dishes, glassware, crockery, candies, fruit, furniture, hardware, paper, thread and several other lines are carried in stock. An inspection will convince you that you can do most of your trading in this one store and at prices that are reasonable.

Mr. and Mrs. Young are popular young people in Bethel. Mr. Young has been employed for several years by the Brown Company. During the past year he has been clerking in the hardware store of G. L. Thurston Co. Mrs. Young (Miss Erma Thurston) has been a successful school teacher and is a popular musician.

The best wishes of a host of friends for a successful business are extended to them.

BETHEL MAN INJURED AT LISBON

Mr. L. U. Bartlett was severely injured last Saturday afternoon on the road between Lewiston and Lisbon. He was getting ready to come home over the week end and was waiting for an electric car to come along when a friend invited him to ride with him. He started across the road to get his travelling bag and when he stepped out from behind the car a Buick driven by Brunswick parties picked him up and carried him on the radiator about forty feet before the car could be stopped. Mr. Bartlett was considerably bruised and shaken up, besides receiving a broken bone in his left leg. His many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

G. A. NOTES

The following students have been selected to participate in the first public speaking of the year:

Seniors—Avis Cottrell, Dorothy Goodnow, Rodney Bartlett, Evans Wilson, Alternate—Forrest Stowell.

Juniors—Ruth Hastings, Lilla Morse, Taylor Clough, Freddie Philbrick, Alternate—Hilred Keddy.

Sophomores—Ellen Cottrell, Electa Chapin, Guy Thurston, Alternate—Thea Hutchinson.

Freshmen—Dorothy Emery, Dorothy Hanson, Alternate—Kenneth Stanley.

The fact that the names of thirty-eight pupils were presented by the teachers as worthy of a place on the public declamations gives evidence that we may expect some very creditable work in the declamations of the year. Next term a new group will be selected for public speaking.

Miss Gladys Bryson of New York, Student Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., is a guest at the school this week.

Most of the out of town students spent the recess of last week at their homes, while several of the teachers attended the convention in Bangor.

The members of the school were sorry to learn of the shooting accident of Clyde Stevens, a member of the Junior class. All hope for his speedy recovery.

A very successful Halloween social was held in the William Bingham Gymnasium on Tuesday evening under the direction of the Twentieth Century Club. Decorations in keeping with the season added to the attractiveness of the gym. The mirth-provoking "stunts" presented by the individual classes, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were very clever and displayed talent hitherto unrecognized. Dancing formed a part of the evening's entertainment. Home-made candy was sold for the benefit of the Senior class. The patronesses were Mrs. F. E. Hanson, Mrs. F. E. Russell, Miss Bryson and Miss Whitman.

BETHEL BOY WOUNDED WHILE HUNTING

While hunting Thursday afternoon, Clyde Stevens, son of Frank Stevens of South Bethel, met with a serious accident. In climbing a tree to watch for deer, his shotgun discharged, the shot passing through the lower part of his leg, thigh and body.

The fact that he was a Boy Scout and had had training in first aid treatment probably saved his life, as he had training, binding his leg to keep from bleeding to death, after which he dragged himself two miles through the woods, coming out on the road near his home, where he attracted the attention of his mother.

He left home early in the afternoon and when he did not return in the evening the neighbors started searching for him.

None of the Bethel doctors were at home and Dr. Willard of Bryant Pond was called. He was taken to the C. M. G. Hospital at Lewiston in Greenleaf ambulance.

It is reported that he will probably be able to return to his studies at Gould's Academy in a few weeks where he is a member of the Junior class.

NEWLY

The school here closed for a week's vacation last Thursday. The work on the school shed is going on rapidly. The carpenter found it pretty cold laying shingles last week. Leon Eaman and Chester Chapman are at work for Mike Marshall in Cambridge.

Ernest Eames and family visited at Bethel the week end.

WESTERN MAINE JERSEY BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION

The Western Maine Jersey Breeders' Association was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Tyler, assisted by the other Bethel members at Bethel, Oct. 25. The meeting was held in Odd Fellows' Hall, and although the day was especially cold for the time of year there was a good attendance. Members came from Waterford, Fryeburg, Sebago, Standish, So. Portland and Portland. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Chas. Farrington, 1st Vice President, and Mr. Chas. Dunn acted as Secretary.

After the usual routine of business had been disposed of the members adjourned to the dining hall where a most bountiful dinner had been prepared. This also being "disposed of" the members reassembled in the hall above.

Mr. O. H. Baker of the American Jersey Cattle Club of New York City spoke very interestingly of some of his personal experiences on the lecture platform and very instructively on the line of work done by the Club. He spoke most encouragingly to the farmers as to the Jerseys he has found in Maine. They compare favorably with those found in other states. Mr. Baker is a Maine boy and has been very successful in his line of work. He is now at the head of the Advanced Registry and Extension Work.

Mr. David Moulton of Portland spoke of the National Dairy Show at St. Paul, from which he had just returned, and especially mentioned a display from No. Dakota showing the advance made in that State. First in the line of the exhibit was a Bison, or wild-cow, then a scrub domestic cow, then a grade Holstein, then a pure blood Holstein, then to crown them all four thoroughbred Jerseys.

Dr. Owen Smith of Portland spoke in favor of breeding and feeding for size as he stated all record cows were sizable ones. He also made a motion that a suitable letter of sympathy and regrets be sent to Mr. W. W. Abbott, the president, of South Waterford, who on account of illness was unable to be present.

A campaign committee was appointed for the purpose of obtaining new members, consisting of Dr. Owen Smith, Chas. E. Dunn, Jr., Wyer Pike, Eugene Kilgore and Chas. Farrington.

It was voted to hold the January meeting in Portland.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

This term of court might be called an automobile term as there were several cases in which these machines figured, more cases of the kind than in any term before. The second week ended with three cases of the kind and the third week began with one, that of George H. Walker vs. Sigmund Burg.

This case is the outcome of a collision which occurred on the 17th day of July last on the Walker bridge over the Saco River in the town of Fryeburg. This bridge, 100 feet long by 18 feet wide, is on the Roosevelt Highway and on that part of it leading from the village of Fryeburg to the village of Bridgton. On this day Sigmund Burg, a travelling salesman from Portland, was proceeding from the first named village to the second, and at this bridge met the car of Mr. Walker, driven by his son Philip, and in some way the cars came together, injuring both, also the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Walker, and this suit is one of four actions, tried as one, to determine the blame of the collision and the amount of damage in each case. Each side accuses the other of negligence which caused the accident.

The jury returned a verdict for Mrs. Walker in the sum of $299.94 for injuries; in the case of Mr. Walker vs. Burg for the defendant and in the case of Burg vs. Walker for defendant.

The criminal cases were put on Tuesday afternoon. Two talesmen were drawn for these trials, Andrew M. Jenkins and John S. Brown, both of Paris. The first case put on by County Attorney Harry M. Shaw was that of State vs. Nikalai Potojarvi for assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill.

This was a tragedy among our Finnish neighbors. It seems that on the 12th day of August last there was a drama and dance given at Finn Hall at West Paris. Before the dance it seems an altercation took place between the respondent and another Finn by the name of Wili Lehto in which the latter was stabbed in the small of the back with a jackknife. The wound was quite severe, about an inch and a half on the surface and quite deep. Lehto was taken

This is Station WOC, G being the third letter of the alphabet, The Palmer School of Chiropractic, Davenport, Ia., where the West begins, broadcasting its regular evening program. This is what thousands of "listeners-in" in every part of the country of North America and on vessels far out on both oceans, hear nightly. Then follows a musical program of surpassing excellence that never fails to highly please those who sit with receivers to their ears. It is conservatively estimated that at least 1,000,000 people hear the programs that are broadcasted from the P. S. C. seven nights a week. The fact that Station WOC is operated by The Palmer School of Chiropractic; that it is one of the most powerful stations in America, and that the nightly programs broadcast are preferred by "listeners-in" to most others is impressive in its significance and those acquainted with the relationship must regard the name Chiropractic and The Palmer School with considerable respect by reason thereof. The week of Oct. 1, brought in 11,000 letters commenting upon the programs and the clearness with which they came through. Bethel folks in Davenport are glad to know the people at home are also hearing these programs. It will be of interest to Bethel people to know that Miss Hazel Arno, a former Bethel girl, had the honor of rendering a piano solo during one of the recent concerts.

LOOKING AHEAD

Right now we are concerned about the present winter. . . . However, our distress of the moment should only emphasize the importance of looking ahead and solving the coal problem for the next year and all the other years that lie before us. Before many years have passed, fuel consumers in great cities, getting their heat units through pipes, will look back in horror to the day when raw coal was consumed, and the people submitted to the evils of smoke, ashes, unnecessary waste, and needless labor.

It will be just as easy in the future to turn on the gas in the cellar furnace as it is now to turn on the water in the bathtub.

No one has ever discovered anything in the world that will burn except gas. We say that a piece of coal will burn, but all we do is to warm the lump to the ignition temperature and then burn the gas that the coal liberates. Unfortunately, when we carry on this process in the most efficient coal burning furnace that was ever constructed, no way has been or will be devised to prevent the escape of carbon, ammonia, and other products of value that the coal contains. In the future, if coal is carried any distance at all, it will be to great cities using or gasifying plants, where the raw coal will be treated and all the values extracted.

Just as whole regions will be supplied with electricity for power purposes from one central plant, so whole regions with an area as great as some of our smaller states will be supplied with gas for heating from enormous central plants. Great mains will carry gas hundreds of miles, just as oil is carried through pipes half way across the American continent. No modern practice is more ridiculous, or more closely linked with a primitive age, than our present methods of distributing and burning coal. Fortunately, the next ten years will witness greater advances toward a day of fuel efficiency than have taken place during the century that has passed.—(Floyd Parsons.)

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

REGULATING THE RICH

There has been a merry passage at arms between Congressman Fear and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon over the former's suggestion that an additional tax of twenty-five per cent be levied against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey because that company has declared a stock-dividend of 400 per cent. Mr. Mellon gets the better of his critic by showing that the earnings of the company already have been taxed, and that a further assessment would therefore be double taxation. "The declaration of a stock-dividend is not significant," says the head of the Treasury, and he brings a decision of the Supreme Court to his assistance in showing that a stock-dividend is "merely book-keeping that does not affect the aggregate assets of the corporation or its outstanding liabilities." It is quite natural for the country to grow a good deal whenever the Rockefeller oil interests annex another corner of the world's wealth; but there must be something inconsistent about this general tendency since there is seldom anything but commendation when the equally prosperous Henry Ford pulls the same little financial stunt. When the rich Rockefeller interests increase the value of their oil stocks 400 per cent and own up to it by issuing new certificates of wealth to their shareholders, the proletariat world knows something is going wrong; but let the fellow described by George Elliot as "a serious ape whom none take seriously," and "obliged in this fool's world to earn his nuts by hard buffoonery," have the luck to "strike oil" and become a millionaire instead of a pauper over night, and—oh, that's different! His stock goes up so fast that it is only proper to speak of it as "wonderful," and it cannot be measured in percentage. Evidently the man who sits on the lid at the United States Treasury is hard-bolled when it comes to making a case against "book-keeping."

BILLIONS OF UNTAXED SECURITIES

American genius early discovered George Washington as an uncommon child because he "could not tell a lie," but Diogenes is still out with his lamp looking for the rare bird who wants to pay the last penny due the tax collector. A generation ago no boy was looked upon as having completed his education unless he had helped "coon" watermelon. Up until a remarkably recent date most ocean travelers thought themselves lacking in some element of cleverness possessed by their fellow humans until they had "amugged." Human nature must still have a few flaws because when it comes to tax-dodging we have an almost universal malady that is likely never to be cured. President Harding has several times directed attention to the biggest case in point, and it is announced that one of the policies of his Administration will be to insist on another constitutional amendment that will prohibit further tax-exempt securities from being issued. No one seems to know just how this mania for "tax-exempt" securities started, but it is suspected that when enterprising American citizens offered new factories "free taxes" that they sowed the wind that led to the ultimate whirlwind represented by the issuance of twenty billion dollars worth of tax-free securities.

Lazy money has grabbed at tax-exempt securities with the result that the public revenue has not only suffered, but the whole industrial situation of the nation has been affected because new capital for development has been curtailed.

Law-making cannot reach the new national evil and it can be cured only by the major operation of a constitutional amendment. But Dr. Harding has given orders to prepare the instruments, the anesthetics and the restoratives for a severe case of surgery; and the country will doubtless wish him every success when he starts carving the awful Tax Exempt dodger.

SCIENTIFIC TARIFF REVISION

There is always an army of several thousand kinds of notions about tariff rates before a bill finally gets through Congress. And now that the tariff bill measure is a law the different dissatisfied business interests have started in to note their appeals with the Tariff Commission. This new commission has hardly had time to get its official feet beneath the mahogany, but nevertheless it is swamped with petitions to alter rates. The burden of the protests call for tariff revision downward, though there are some instances in which the upward trend meets favor.

It is the understanding in Washington that the commission will determine what petitions it will, or will not, take up; and then proceed rather deliberately to the business of determining whether any economic conditions have changed enough to warrant going back to the schedules fixed by Congress. Where the petitioners succeed in convincing the commissioners the process of changing the tariff rates will be threshed out, and tariff changes put into effect through Executive orders. President Harding is optimistic that the elastic features of the law will lead to scientific tariff revision during his present term of office.

AMERICA'S BIG FAILURE

There is a perfect storm of agitation in favor of unloading such shipping business as is controlled by the United States government onto private interests. The subsidy advocates say that the government is hampered by the seaman's law by reason of which American sailors are given the protection of a sort of trade unionism that enables them to get more pay than the sailors on foreign vessels. This is given as one reason why our ships do not pay. Another theory of the American failure at running a merchant shipping business is traced to the prohibition law. Still another story tells of the discrimination of the British Government against our ships. All these reasons, we are told officially, afford the explanation of the great American fizzle, which it is proposed to wish onto private individuals. The panacea for remedying the above evils has not been broached. All one hears is—get rid of the ships.

WARFARE AGAINST CANCER

Cancer is now killing one out of every ten persons over forty years of age. The American Society for the Prevention of Cancer declares that "open warfare by open discussion will mean the prevention of many needless deaths." Taken at the very inception a cancerous growth can be stopped and the victim saved. Because of this established fact in the medical world the physicians of the entire country have organized one of the greatest campaigns of education ever attempted, and during the week of November 12 to 18, it is expected that every intelligent person in the country who will give the time to listen can hear a physician tell how cancers are discovered, and their spread stopped.

PRETTY DULL IN WASHINGTON

With Congress at recess, the coal and rail strikes over, and only the quarrelings of the Attorney General and the head of the American Federation of Labor for excitement, it is small wonder that copy writers in the National Capital find news scarce. Mr. Daugherty declares that he is "attorney-generalizing" this country in a first-class manner, and he says that he will insist on the House of Representatives taking up the impeachment charges that have been lodged against him by Representative Keller. "Impeachment" is usually cheap talk, and doubtless Mr. Daugherty is convinced that the best way to put the opposition to him in a hole is to insist on action with reference to the charges now on file in the House. It is safe to say that about all that can come of such a matter will be a little discussion in the House some day, in which Keller will be the principal bone of contention because he has stirred up an inconvenient mess.

KINEO FURNACES

Many years of experience in manufacturing Warm Air Furnaces gives the ability to make a warm air furnace that contains those practical features of construction which we know are necessary for the correct and comfortable heating of homes.

Kineo Furnaces are exceptional heaters—durable, efficient and economical. They have sound, practical features, which actually do save fuel, labor and operating expense for the user.

The air-tight construction of Kineo Furnaces insures clean warm air. Soot and gas will not leak through the joints. The furnace is very easy to manage, requiring but little attention and using a small amount of fuel.

Kineo Furnaces are foremost because of distinctive, time-tried features; they are perfectly satisfactory in every way.

FORDS DOWN $50

According to a statement issued by Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, a general reduction of $50.00 per car has been made in the prices of Ford model "T" cars and the Ford One-Ton Truck, effective October 17th.

"The reduction in prices," said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our company has enjoyed during the present year, and also, to the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody."

"Our production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 5,000 cars and trucks which means a complete Ford car or truck every 5 1/2 seconds of each eight-hour working day. It is in anticipation of this continued demand that price adjustments are being made in order to keep in effect the policy of selling Ford products at the lowest price consistent with quality."

"Quality, as usual," said Mr. Ford, "will continue to be a prime consideration in the building of Ford cars. As our business has increased we have consistently increased our equipment and manufacturing facilities, so that this price reduction merely reflects the progressive methods which come as a result of increased volume."

"This reduction, which is the sixth since March, 1920, brings the price of the Ford Touring car from $575, the price in effect early in 1920, to the extremely low level of $525, which is nearly 10% less. Corresponding reductions have been made on all other types."

The new prices by types follow: Touring, $525; Roadster, $560; Chassis, $235; Coupe, $350; Sedan, $595; Truck, $390.

INTERNATIONAL LONGFELLOW SOCIETY

In an effort to keep the birthplace of Henry W. Longfellow, beloved American poet, the property of the people of the United States, the International Longfellow Society has sent out a notice to all Longfellows in the world. This notice is in the form of an announcement, is signed by Arthur C. Jackson, President of the Society, and calls attention to the mortgage of many years' standing which still hangs over the celebrated birthplace at Portland, Maine.

The International Longfellow Society was founded several years ago, upon the basis of its object the restoration and perpetuation of the great American poet's home, which was to remain the property of the American people. At the time of its inception the movement was publicly endorsed by such public men as the late President Roosevelt, Chief Justice Taft, Cardinals O'Connell and Dougherty, Rabbi Hirsch and Enelow, bishops of all denominations and governors of many states. More than a thousand Women's Clubs, representing every state in the Union, by small contributions made possible the purchase of the birthplace. It has been dedicated by the Governor of Maine and a distinguished assembly, as the International Longfellow Memorial. There now remains a small indebtedness on the property and there is no endowment for the future.

In order to raise the necessary funds to lift the mortgage and to carry on the work of collecting and exhibiting material relating to Longfellow's life and writings, encouraging world-wide observance of the Anniversaries of his birth, and promoting study of his works, the Society has devised a plan which will allow of universal participation in the project. Any child of any age who contributes twenty-five cents, or for whom a contribution of twenty-five cents is made, will receive a Life Membership Certificate in the International Longfellow Society, free from all fees or dues of any kind. Besides this the child will receive with the society's certificate, a shiny leather-bound edition of Longfellow's famous poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

The announcement goes on to state that one adult contribution of one dollar will also receive a Life Membership Certificate, along with a leather-bound edition of "Songoline." Also, any child who contributes two dollars will receive a shiny leather-bound edition of the celebrated "Miles Standish" in two volumes.

After mentioning that all contributions should be sent by check, draft or money order, payable to The International Longfellow Society, and addressed to "Longfellow Birthplace, Box 747, Portland, Maine," the announcement closes with the plea that the celebrated birthplace remain the property of "every-day" people, to become, as Edwin Markham suggested, "a shrine and place of pilgrimage."

"Mistaken for a deer" is a poem written for a man to make who shoots a deer. It makes sure what he is shooting at. He should be chased with the deer and dealt with accordingly.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Store in readiness for the hike to Mt. Mica. The morning was cold and windy a matter that barred many the privilege of going, but every one of the eleven Scouts were ready for anything. The rule of nothing less than three blankets per Scout was put in play and stood the troop in good stead that night.

The distance was covered on foot and the small building at Mt. Mica looked real cozy when reached. A roaring fire was built in the fireplace, the floor was swept, wood was cut and piled and shortly the smell of cooking dinner filled the whole camp. Spare coats acted as good window panes where needed. Football and wrestling took up a large part of the time allotted to Athletic Sports, and a hunt for tourmalines was carried on at irregular intervals. After supper the entire troop gathered around the camp fire and told stories until late evening.

The sardine pack was employed in allotting sleeping space. This works out very well for extra warmth although not so conducive to an early start at sleeping. The fact that the hour of rising was not until six o'clock proved that everyone slept fairly cozy, even though the bedsprings were a hard floor.

The morning dawned bright and clear and everyone arose and got busy. Cliff Dumas and Francis Edwards passed their tracking tests. Several outdoor games were played and a mining tour was well attended. Beechnut hunting was popular with some who in turn became popular on their return to camp. After dinner the baggage was packed and the camp and grounds cleaned up in A1 style. Shortly afterwards everyone "hit the trail" but not until each had expressed his personal thanks to Mr. Bowker for the several favors he had done for the Scouts. Harlan Knight acted as assistant in charge of camp.

WEST PARIS

The ladies of the Federated church held a very successful harvest dinner, supper and sale Thursday. The excellent meals received good patronage as did also the sale. There was a variety of pretty and useful articles, fruit, vegetables, plants and confections, to suit the customer. The entertainment consisted of music and readings, and was free, but was worthy of a good dinner free.

Mrs. Alice Heath of Auburn was the guest last week of Mrs. Mary Curtis and daughter, Ella.

System is Above All.

If I were asked what is one of the best motives for a young man to adopt, I should say "the systematic." There is nothing like a system. It should be evident in everything one does—a one's mode of living, in study, and in business.—Sir H. Woodman Burleigh.

Pop-Thought.

"Humans probably think my master walks down street in order to arrive at some other place besides the one he starts for. I know better. He does that merely to lift up one heel so I can bite at it, then jerk it away and put the other one up for me to trip at. He can't fool me!"—Wayside Tales.

WHY THAT LAME BACK?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Bethel resident's example.

F. R. Merrill, Main St., says: "Whenever my kidneys become sluggish in action or my back gets to hurting, I resort to Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Bosserman's Drug Store and they never fail to bring relief. I have been following the lumbering business for years and exposure and taking cold I blame for my kidney trouble. I had backache so bad I couldn't do a tap of work. The pains across my back and kidneys completely put me past going and my kidneys wouldn't act regularly. At times the secretions passed too often, then again, were scanty and painful and I couldn't rest nights. After I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills relief followed."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Merrill had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Three Reasons Why

When you figure on shingling a new roof or re-shingling an old one, remember these three facts regarding Ruberoid Strip-shingles.

Nine styles—three colors. Ruberoid Strip-shingles provide an unusually distinctive roof. Their patented form enables you to choose your roof from nine attractive styles. The natural slate-surfacing (red or green) on one face and a substantial grey weather-enating on the other, makes it possible for you to carry out any particular style in either solid colors or in attractive blends of sage green, Indian red, or steel grey—depending upon your fancy.

Less expensive to lay. Ruberoid Strip-shingles save labor and expense when it comes to laying. With every strip, four shingles are fastened in place. No chalk lines are necessary, because the shingles are self-spacing.

No expense for upkeep. Ruberoid Strip-shingles are built according to the well-known Ruberoid standard of quality through and through. They are unusually thick and rigid. They always remain flat. Surface and back coatings, saturant and felt, are the best that can be made.

Phone us today for samples and a folder which illustrates in colors the nine different styles which may be obtained.

THE STORY OF A BILL

By CONGRESSMAN GUY U. HARDY

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

About the easiest thing in the world for a member of congress to do is to introduce a bill.

All one needs to do is to write the bill out on a piece of paper and put it in the basket on the clerk's desk. Then it has been introduced.

Many bills are introduced, but few are passed. In the last congress 10,170 bills and 550 joint and concurrent resolutions were introduced in the house and 5,052 bills and 304 joint and concurrent resolutions in the senate.

Out of all of these, 69 public resolutions and 521 bills passed and became laws of the land. The record for the greatest number of bills introduced was made in the Sixty-first congress, when 34,883 bills and resolutions were introduced in the house alone, out of which 810 became law.

When the clerk gets hold of the bill he refers it to the appropriate committee. And there it may rest in peaceful slumber forever more, or it may be heard from again if enough pressure is exerted in its favor.

Cut home a good friend of mine suggested once that he didn't like this committee system; he thought that each member should give individual consideration to every bill introduced. Imagine it, if you can.

No man can read fast enough to keep up with all bills introduced. Most committees get more bills referred to them than can be given intelligent consideration. So, naturally, the bills which have the greatest support in the country get first consideration. Congress gives first consideration to the appropriation and revenue bills. These and some other bills of national-wide importance come along automatically.

Hearings on Bills. When a committee decides to give consideration to a bill, if it concerns many people or interests, hearings are held. That is, people interested are invited to come in and tell the committee why they think the bill should or should not become a law.

Sometimes these hearings are quite elaborate affairs. Some last several weeks and hundreds of people come from all over the country to testify for or against the bill. The tariff bill hearing brought experts and prominent representatives of every line of industry to Washington.

The appropriations committee has 35 members, the ways and means 25 members, and other important committees have 21 members each. The members sit around a long table and the witness addresses them. The witness must know what he is talking about. If he would make a good impression, any member may interrupt him at any time with any question, and before he gets through the committee is likely to find out all he knows and some he doesn't know about his subject. The hearings are open to the public.

An official reporter takes down everything that is said, and later the hearings are printed in paper-bound book form. Some of these hearings, like that on the tariff, for instance, run into thousands of pages. They bring out a vast amount of useful information, and some of the printed hearings are practically textbooks on the subject discussed. The printed hearings are given to all members, so that they may become posted on any proposed legislation. Others who are interested may, at times, get copies.

After the hearings are closed the committee holds executive sessions and discusses the bill. It may decide not to report it out. This practically kills a bill. It may decide on some or many amendments to the bill, or it may rewrite the bill in another form, or it may report it out as it was introduced.

When the bill is reported out it goes on the calendar. There are several kinds of calendars, operating for different classes of bills under different rules.

Debating the Measure. The big bills come up in the committee of the whole house on the state of the Union. Debate is usually two or four hours, though any amount of time may be agreed upon. Sometimes 12 or 14 hours has been agreed on. The time is equally divided between the majority and minority sides. The greatest fairness as to division and distribution of time always prevails. The time is parceled out by the chairman of the committee in charge on the majority side and the ranking minority members on the other side.

The bill is first read. Then comes the debate. Sometimes members must stick to the subject under discussion and sometimes they are permitted to talk about anything under the sun. Here is where campaign speeches sometimes get in.

After the hours for general debate have been used up the bill is read again by sections for amendments. This is termed "reading the bill under the five-minute rule," as no member may talk more than five minutes, except by unanimous consent. No member can get the floor except to advocate or oppose an amendment. Members do often make a motion "to strike out the last word" or "last two words," etc., in order to get the floor for five minutes.

Many amendments are offered and usually some are adopted. On one bill over 800 amendments were offered. Often amendments are offered in order to weaken the bill and help to defeat it. Amendments not supported by the committee have hard sledding and few are passed. Occasionally amendments are offered by members merely to enable them to make a speech that may please constituents interested. It has been estimated that only about five per cent of the amendments offered on the floor are adopted.

When the bill is read through for amendments, which is the second reading, the committee of the whole votes on recommending its passage. If this is favorable the committee then "rises" and the speaker takes the chair and calls the house to order. The chairman of the committee of the whole reports the proceedings to the speaker. Then the bill comes up for third reading. It is read by title only and voted on without further remarks or debate.

Fixed Up in Conference.

If it is passed, the bill is sent to the senate and has the same rocky road to travel over there. Probably it will have sundry amendments tacked to it in the senate. Then it comes back to the house for another vote. If the house declines to accept the amendments put in by the senate, the bill is sent to conference. That is, a committee made up of a few senators and representatives, the ranking members on the committees that reported the bill out, consider all phases, endeavor to compromise differences, and when they agree, their report goes back to both houses and is usually adopted. Once in awhile the bill is sent back to conference several times before one of the houses is satisfied.

Many a proud father of proposed legislation does not recognize his fond offspring when it is finally passed by both houses and is ready to be sent over for the President's signature.

There are several other ways of getting bills up in the house. Those pertaining to claims and pensions, and of a private nature, come up under "unanimous consent." On consent day the father of the bill has good reason to be on the anxious seat, for a single member may "object" and prevent the consideration of the bill. Very seldom does a member object out of spite or on account of personal enmity. But there are a half dozen who make a specialty of studying these bills and stand ready to see that they are properly amended or objected to. And many an innocent looking little bill is choked to death on unanimous consent day.

Some bills come up under a special rule. The rules committee presents a resolution providing a special rule for consideration of a bill. The bonus bill, for instance, came up under a special rule. Four hours were allowed for debate and then the bill came up for vote without allowing any amendments to be offered. You had to take the bill the way it was or not at all. The object, of course, was to prevent unreasonable and harmful amendments being offered or adopted. Men often vote for an amendment and then vote against the bill.

Some think that a curb should perhaps be put on the introduction of so many bills, but that is hardly possible. Who would be competent to censor? Of course the greatest freedom in this respect must prevail. Let the congress and the country decide which are worthy and useful. As a matter of fact when you come to think about it, the wonder is that many more bills are not introduced, for practically every man and at most every woman in the country has in his or her system the idea of some new law or laws that in his or her opinion ought to be enacted. Many of these ideas of proposed new legislation find their way in the shape of bills to the basket on the clerk's desk in the house of representatives or in the senate. Many start there, but very few wind up at the White House seeking the President's signature.

Buncombe in Congress. When the Missouri compromise bill was up for final passage in the house of representatives in 1820, Henry Clay was pressing for a vote. A member from North Carolina had been begging for a little time. Mr. Clay began to get impatient and said: "There was no time to yield, the big bill should come up for a vote."

"But," retorted the industrious member, who had a speech in his system and wanted to get it out, "I must make a speech for Buncombe."

Thus, a hundred and two years ago, a new word was coined in a most unexpected manner, and it has come down the centuries, growing in significance as it has been abbreviated. Buncombe, buncom, bunk—they all mean the same, and the meaning has not changed in the 102 years.

News of General Interest From the Six States

Insurance Commissioner G. Waldon Smith of Maine has tendered his resignation to Gov. Baxter. Illness is given as the reason.

Divorced persons, except those who are the innocent parties to a divorce for the cause of adultery, will not in the future be married by ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of Bangor and vicinity.

The Presbyterian Synod of New England, at its 10th annual meeting in Providence, authorized the engaging of a synodical secretary to extend the work of the Presbyterian Church in this group of states.

Commissioner Smith has been at the head of the State Insurance Department for the last five years. During that time the income of the department has increased from $187,000 in 1917 to $338,000 in 1921.

Constitutional Allied Pawket R. L. Democratic ranks when it became known at the office of the Board of Canvassers and Registration that the Democratic City Committee had failed to file party nominations for Mayor and members of the School Committee.

Mrs. Arthur Field of London, Eng., has appealed to the Boston Inquiry Department of the Salvation Army, to locate her husband, Arthur Field, from whom she has not heard in more than a year. She was recently told he was in Boston. Field is a seaman.

Amidee Lamoureux of Brimstone Hill, Ware, Mass., peddled milk for two weeks while his entire family had been ill with diphtheria, at the height of an epidemic of that disease which hit 50 persons and killed two children. Mrs. Lamoureux admitted that she bottled milk, although herself ill with the disease.

Lynn Local 57, United Shoe Workers of America, accepted the price readjustment plan of Mayor McPherson of Lynn affecting nearly 1000 fancy stitchers in Lynn shoe factories. Under the war bonus plan the wages of the stitchers were increased by 20 per cent. The new scale allowed only 10 per cent increase.

Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook of Massachusetts, has sent out more than 1,000, 000 pamphlets of official information, one to each registered voter of Massachusetts. Secretary Cook says that it seems probable that about 1,500,000 of the documents will be sent, but his office is prepared to send 1,500,000.

A proclamation calling upon citizens of the state generally to observe Armistice day will be issued by Gov. Cox. Officials of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars have asked the Governor to declare Nov. 11 a holiday. The Governor, it is declared, has no authority to proclaim a legal holiday, the Legislature alone having this power.

Jack Chesbro, former star baseball player in the major leagues, created quite a stir in North Adams, Mass., when it became known that he had arrived in North Adams in charge of a fish car, which arrives weekly to peddle fish from the fishing. The former baseball hero, now manager of the Boston Distributing Company, a fish concern, quickly disposed of his cargo.

Robert Boede, who for a fortnight was claimed by Mrs. Clarence Smith of Dighton, Mass., as her kidnapped son, Russell has been taken in charge by officials of the child guardianship division of the state department of public welfare. Judge E. E. Austin in Taunton district court turned the 7-year-old boy over to them after sustaining a charge that the lad was a neglected child.

Deaths recorded in Massachusetts during the first six months of 1922 were 27,227, which, the secretary of state estimates, on the basis of the population of the state is 3,992,576 as of July 1 last, is seven for 1000 population. The total number of deaths during 1921 was 47,750, which amounted to a rate of 12.3 for 1000 population—the lowest rate ever recorded in Massachusetts for an entire year.

Joseph P. Kirk and Edward S. Wallace of Boston, young ex service men, in employ of a Boston wool concern, explained to United States Commissioner Charles E. Reid of Bangor that they meant no harm in holding up automobiles and searching them for liquor near the Canadian line. They said they were bound for Canada on business and found in Houlton several quarts of fairly good whiskey, of which they took numerous drinks. There were having a lark, that's all.

Letters at the rate of 10,000 per day were sent out from the office of the secretary of state to all in the state who had automobiles registered this year—a total of 50,000 persons in Maine. With these letters are application blanks for registration of cars next year. Those who had cars registered this year numbered 2 to 30,000 received a notice calling attention to the fact that by statute the first 30,000 numbers are reserved until Dec. 1 for those who had them in 1922. This also applies to those having the first 500 numbers for trucks.

Butter market very firm with an inclination towards higher prices on all scores. Trade has been active with bulk of the business on the 25-35 scores both on miscellaneous lots and centralized cars. Real fine butter is short but is only in demand. Buyers are taking larger quantities of blocks anticipating their future requirements. Western Extras 47c, Northern Extras 47c-48c. SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT en to a doctor and the wound dressed, and while this was being done Polo-jarvi left for home in Greenwood, where both parties reside.

Lehto recovered from his wounds. The services of Lauri Immonen were required as interpreter as neither of these parties could speak English.

After cross examination a recess was taken, and there was a conference between the parties concerned and the judge. As a result of this conference the county attorney not pressed that part of the indictment "with intent to kill" and Polojarvi retracted his plea of not guilty for guilty; and for this offense was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail.

Wednesday was given over to hearing criminal cases. Most of these hearings were short, many retracting former pleas of not guilty, and pleading guilty to such indictments as had been found against them.

The first case called in the morning was tried before a jury. It was State of Maine vs. Wadsworth Lorinath of Rumford for robbery. After a few witnesses had been called it was given to a jury, who returned a verdict of not guilty.

The next case heard was that of State vs. Lewis White of Rumford for illegal possession. This was an old case, the indictment having been found at the May term of court in Rumford. Mr. White pleaded guilty. He was fined $100 with two months in the county jail.

George Tucker of Hartford was indicted at this term for the possession of a still. He retracted his plea made earlier in the session of not guilty and pleaded guilty. He was fined $100, but the sentence was suspended during good behavior, he to report from time to time.

Cloris C. Gallant of Rumford was the next respondent in the dock, for the same offense. He was fined $100, with the sentence suspended during good behavior, he to report from time to time.

Bert Rooney was before the judge for forgery. Rooney, who lived in Rumford, came across the bank book of a friend and forged his name to an order of withdrawal in the sum of $53 from the Rumford Falls Trust Company. A. E. Stearns asked for clemency on the ground of his youth (he is only 18 years old) and the fact that he has neither father nor mother, and the fact that he has taken care of himself from the age of 14 years, also that he was under the influence of liquor at the time he committed the forgery, and that he fully understood the enormity of the crime to which he pleaded guilty. The judge took the case under advisement.

The case of State vs. Antonio Putre-ventis was tried by jury Wednesday. The indictment against this Rumford man was for illegal possession. Officers in riding this place last May found fifteen gallons of beer and several quarts of alcohol. The respondent claimed this liquor was for home consumption. In answer to the query as to why there was so much at one time, the wife of the respondent explained there was to be a christening of a Putreventis baby the next day. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

John Bernard of Mexico was brought into court to answer to an indictment for possession of a still, keeping and selling. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $1000 and to serve two months in the county jail. He was placed under $500 bonds for appearance from term to term.

There was a case of mistaken identity brought into court Wednesday. A complaint for single sale had been made against Percival L. Bartlett of Hartford. The officer served the warrant on a man in Hartford usually known as Percy L. Bartlett, Percie Bartlett, P. L. Bartlett. He denied that his name was Percival and therefore not obliged to answer to the indictment. Witnesses were brought into court in proof of his name, or what he was generally called. Several of the witnesses claimed that they had generally supposed his name to be Percival and had heard him called by that name, and others that they had never heard him called by that name.

The case was continued over the night to obtain more witnesses.

The last case put on Wednesday afternoon was the indictment against Francis L. Mills of Rumford for non-support.

Mrs. Mills went on to the stand and testified that her husband had failed to furnish support for herself and children and that she had caused his arrest last August on this charge, and that since that time he had been in the county jail. This couple were married in 1917 and at the present time have four children. Mr. Mills has spent his time in a number of ways since his marriage including a few months overseas during the war. In fact the couple were married after he entered the service. His first army service was in one of the forts in Portland harbor, and it was while stationed there that the marriage took place. On returning home he has not had steady employment for various reasons. He is still interested in military

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Rev. J. H. Little, Pastor
Morning service at 10.45.
Sunday School at 12.

Meeting of the Y. P. C. U., 7 P. M.
At this meeting last Sunday, Miss Mar-jorie Farwell was the leader, and Miss Doris Goodnow gave a violin solo.

The Ladies' Circle was very pleasantly entertained last week by Mrs. O. M. Mason and Miss Alice Mason.

This week the Circle will meet with Miss L. M. Stearns for an all day meeting with dinner at noon. In the afternoon a percale shower.

Monday, Oct. 30, the young people of the church had a Halloween party at the chapel. There was a large attendance of old and young and a general good time was enjoyed. It was a pleasure to see how the youngest of the children entertained everything. The chapel was decorated with the usual Halloween eats, bats and witches. Lunch was served in the dusk, with lights from the Jack-o'-lanterns and candles on the tables, and ghosts served the cocoa. Much credit is due the young people for the success of the party.

The Maine State Y. P. C. U. will have an inspiration meeting and banquet in the Universalist church at Augusta, Friday evening, Nov. 3. It is hoped that every local Y. P. C. U. will have delegates at this meeting, as many as can attend, they will all be delegates. Banquet at 6.30, 50 cents per plate.

The several indictments against parties for breaking and entering cottages on the lake front of Lake Penesseewassee last summer were also tried at this evening session. Otis and George Eaton were the men indicted for the crime, and they were convicted of it and sentenced to serve six months in the Men's Reformatory at Windham; but this sentence was suspended during good behavior. On the other count of the indictments, they were sentenced to pay a fine of $200 each, and serve each one month in the county jail.

There were two women connected with these men at the time of the robberies, who shared in the spoils—Lillian Brisson and Jeanette Brindle. They were indicted for receiving stolen property, and received in punishment the same fine and imprisonment as the men, viz: $200 and imprisonment in the county jail for one month each.

Albert Walker, a young criminal not out of his short trousers, was before the court for larceny. He was sentenced to a term in the State School for Boys, or an alternate sentence in the state's prison.

Keith Carle having pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Ernest Thibodeau's restaurant was sentenced to the Reformatory at Windham, but his case was continued as he had admitted he had broken his parole from that institution. He was taken back to the reformatory.

Henry Estes retracted his plea of not guilty of stealing an automobile and was sent to the reformatory.

Samuel W. Dorr of Mexico was also sent to the reformatory for selling a team belonging to another man.

The case of Victor Helene of Paris indicted for selling a mortgaged auto was continued as he had made restitution.

The jurors were finally discharged Thursday morning. There was a little business before the court after their discharge but these matters were finished during the day so that the October term became a matter of history Thursday night.

Twenty-one divorces were granted during the term.
